Project: Electromagnetic Waves - A Sea of Information

Electromagnetic wave is a wave in which electric and magnetic fields are perpendicular to each other and also perpendicular to the direction of propagation of wave. It can also be shown that time - varying electric field produces space - varying magnetic field and time - varying magnetic field produces space - varying electric field with the equations: $\nabla \times \mathbf{E} = -\dot{\mathbf{B}}$ and $\nabla \times \mathbf{B} = \mu_0 \mathbf{j} + \mu_0 \epsilon_0 \dot{\mathbf{E}}$

The electromagnetic spectrum is the range of frequencies (the spectrum) of electromagnetic radiation and their respective wavelengths and photon energies.. The electromagnetic spectrum covers electromagnetic waves with frequencies ranging from below one hertz to above 10²⁵ hertz, corresponding to wavelengths from thousands of kilometers down to a fraction of the size of an atomic nucleus.

Maxwell's equations are a set of coupled partial differential equations that, together with the Lorentz force law, form the foundation of classical electromagnetism, classical optics, and electric circuits. The equations provide a mathematical model for electric, optical, and radio technologies, such as power generation, electric motors, wireless communication, lenses, radar etc.
